

GSA InteractSM

is an online platform where federal, state and local government staff, the military, industry partners and other stakeholders connect, to discuss and share information and knowledge.

Find the latest news and trending topics, join specialized groups that focus on diverse issues, and register for upcoming events and training opportunities. GSA InteractSM is a collaborative experience — a place where sharing your views is welcomed through blogs, wikis, discussions, polls and chats among and across:

- Thousands of registered community members;
- A number of distinct, public-facing groups; and
- A team of geographically-dispersed GSA subject matter experts managing communities, writing blogs and moderating discussions.

GSA InteractSM

An online, open, collaborative community for connecting, communicating, learning and engaging across GSA topics — from GSA Schedules to sustainability and beyond.

GSA InteractSM

As an introduction to GSA InteractSM, here's a quick look at the home page with brief descriptions of the site's key features. Once you've discovered what Interact has to offer, go to interact.gsa.gov and register, and find out what it means to be a part of it.

Home

The Interact home page displays the groups, blogs and upcoming training/event opportunities available to you. You can also comment on blog posts and read tweets from about a dozen GSA Twitter accounts on the site's Twitterfall. And, as a hub of sharing and collaboration on trending topics, the Shout Box feature gives you an instant podium to “shout out” a short message to the Interact community.

Dashboard

The Dashboard is a personal home page you can customize to meet your specific information needs. It features a number of areas you can toggle on and off, including events in my groups, featured groups, latest notices, most active users, my groups, my recent items, my unread items recent activity, recent content, and who's online.

Community

The heart of Interact is the community area where you can join groups focused on your topics of interest — from sustainability to small business to GSA Schedules and beyond. This area provides access to all aspects of the online community, including groups, blog posts, discussions, documents, polls, wikis, an online calendar and a membership directory.
