New Award under Federal Supply Schedule 66 II Q GeoPhysical, Environmental Analysis Equipment and Services

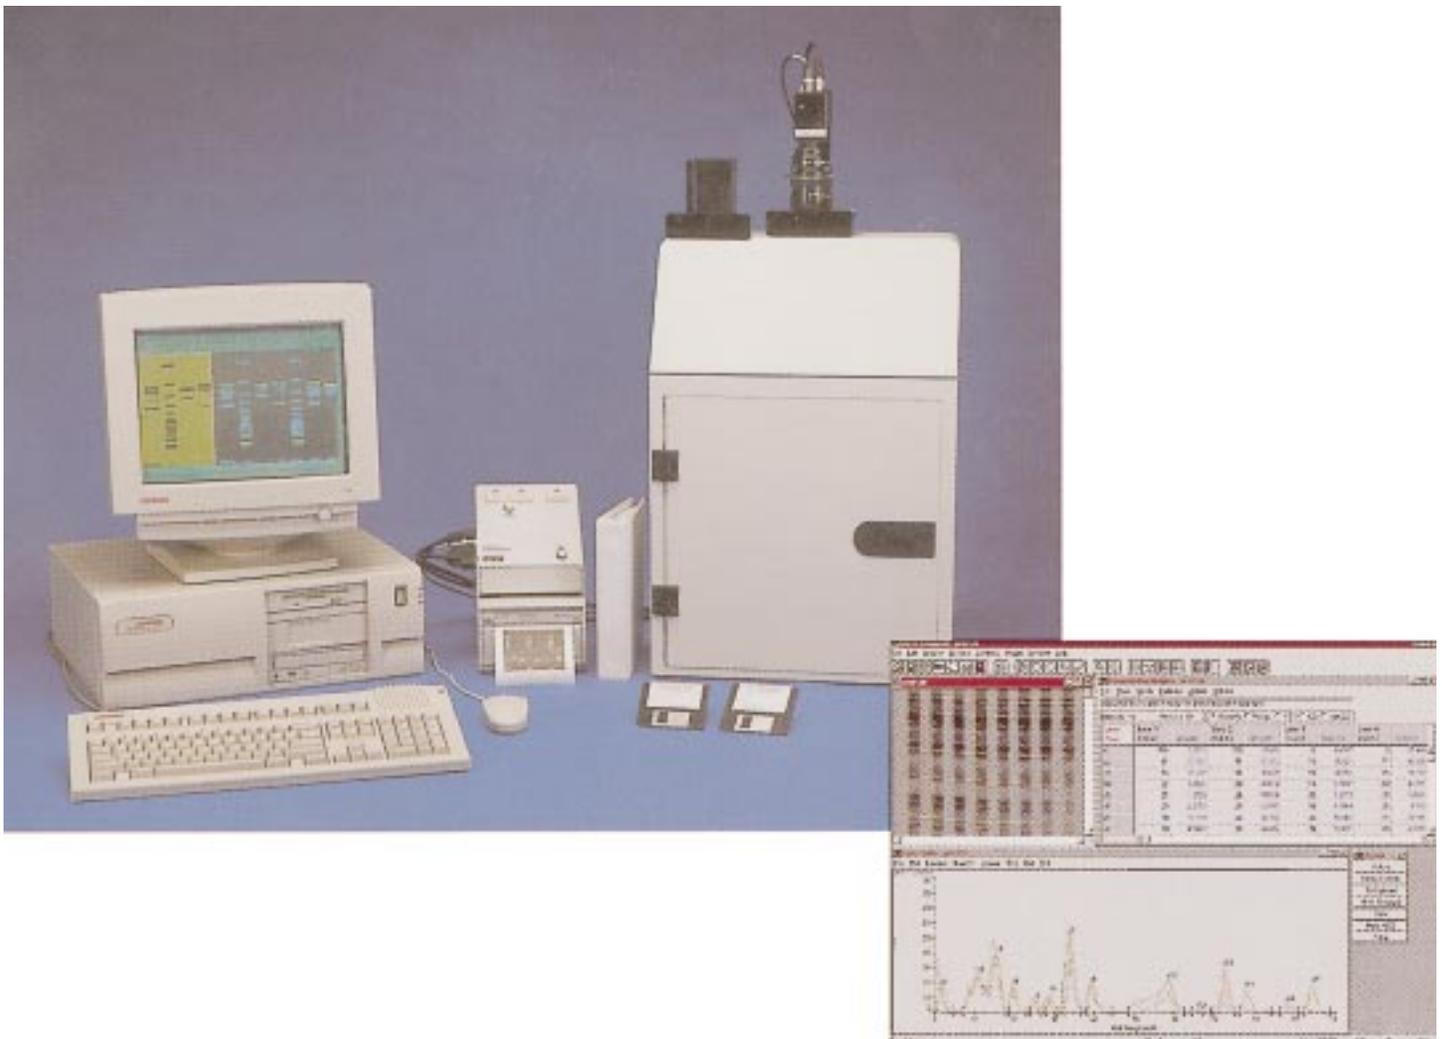

Fotodyne, Inc., FOTO/Analyst Investigator System and FOTO/Phoresis DNA Analysis System

The FOTO/Analyst Investigator system allows one to capture, manipulate and store laboratory data. Files can be archived in nine file formats (including tiff, jpeg, and bmp) for further analysis. It allows you to obtain hard copies of your images on thermal prints. The integration feature enables the acquisition of low light fluorescent gels, extending sensitivity to beyond that of conventional photography. This system is designed to be compatible with fully loaded computers. You can use one computer for analysis needs as well as for general spreadsheets, word processing and other functions. SIN 66-122

The FOTO/Phoresis DNA Analysis System offers nanogram sensitivity as electrophoresis, visualization and photodocumentation are all done at one station without ever leaving the bench. It is capable of running a DNA gel and documenting the same gel – all in less than two hours. The electrophoresis component of this system includes a unique cell assembly that features a convenient no-tape mini-gel tray. The gel chamber includes an interlocking lid to protect the user against accidental exposure to electrical current. SIN 66-107

For further information, contact Fotodyne, Inc., at 800-362-3686 or FAX them at 414-369-7017. The point of contact is Kathy Dragotta. Contract Number GS-24F-0020J.

New Award under Federal Supply Schedule 66 II Q GeoPhysical, Environmental Analysis Equipment and Services

Knudsen Systems Sub-Surface Profiling Systems

Knudsen Systems was awarded a contract under Federal Supply Schedule 66 II Q for Sub-Surface Profiling Systems (SIN 66-603). This system produces a high-resolution record accurately depicting bottom profiles and sediment layers with 32 shades of gray. The thermal printer uses easily loaded 21.6cm (8.5”) plastic film for permanent, high quality records, or standard fax paper for lower resolution applications. The annotated depth grid is printed with reverse shading for clarity. Digitized water depth is shown on two large 4-digit LCD displays, visible in direct sunlight and backlit for night operation. The LCD menu provides access to parameters such as sound velocity, draft, TX blanking, serial port assignment, time and date setting, and a variety of self-test, communication and configuration features.

For further information, contact Knudsen Systems at 315-393-8861 or FAX them at 315-393-9017. The electronic mail address is info@knudsenengineering.com, the point of contact is Judith Knudsen. Contract Number GS-24F-0018J.

MGP Instruments Radioactivity Detectors

This system includes dosimeter, compact transmitters, various area monitor detector options and other sensor devices. It allows customers to take full advantage of the “cutting edge” technology, allowing them to simultaneously save man-hours and reduce potential exposure to hazardous materials while maintaining close monitoring of sensor packages. SIN 66-21

MGP were also awarded product support option SINs 66-502, 66-503, 66-504, 66-505, 66-506 and 66-507.

For further information, contact MGP Instruments at 770-432-2744 or FAX them at 770-432-9179. The points of contacts are Jan Sacklyn or Bob Mallaney. Contract Number GS-24F-0016J. Federal Supply Schedule 66 II Q.

New Award under Federal Supply Schedule 66 II J Instruments and Laboratory Equipment and Services

Techkor Instrumentation, Inc. Argus Automated Measurement System

This system presents an open architecture approach for conditioning, digitizing, processing and storing measurement data. The system can function as a stand-alone unit or as part of a large measurement network.

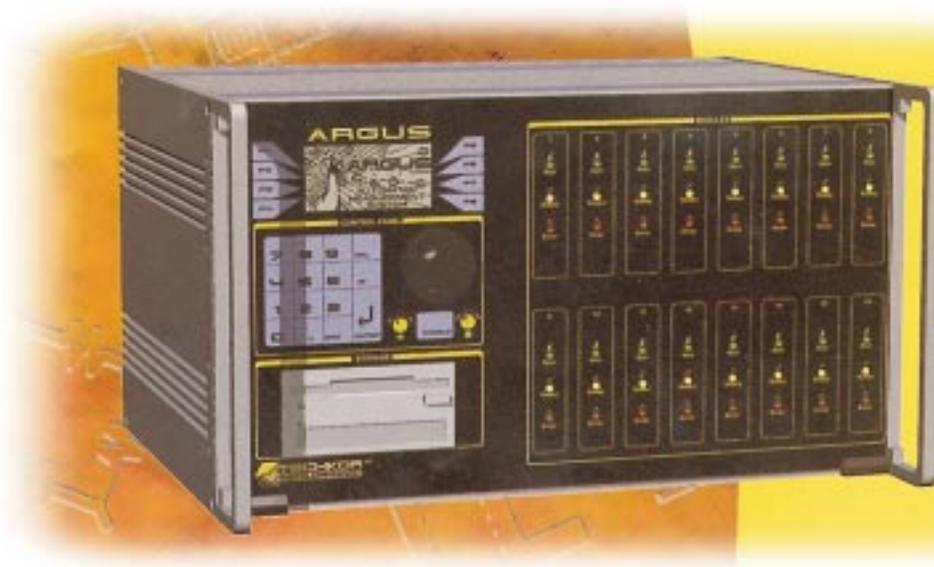

Characteristics:

- Argus supports all brands and styles of transducers,
- Outputs data accurate to sixteen bits for maximum resolution,
- Each Argus module features dedicated A/D circuitry so that all measurement channels are digitized simultaneously,
- All functions of the system can be software controlled and can be run through a networkable system,
- The Argus embedded computer performs calibrations, self-diagnostics, and setup automatically to make test preparation easy.

For more information, call Techkor at (717) 774-9430, FAX them at (717) 774-9432, or visit their website at www.techkor.com. The point of contact is Christopher McLean.

New Award under Federal Supply Schedule 66 II J Instruments and Laboratory Equipment and Services

Avionics Test Equipment

Airsys ATM, Inc., has just been awarded a Federal Supply Schedule contract to provide Portable ILS Receivers. This navigation signal analyzer is a portable unit which provides measurement capabilities for localizer, glide slope, marker beacon and VOR signals. This eliminates the need for additional maintenance instruments such as frequency counters, modulation meters and wave analyzers.

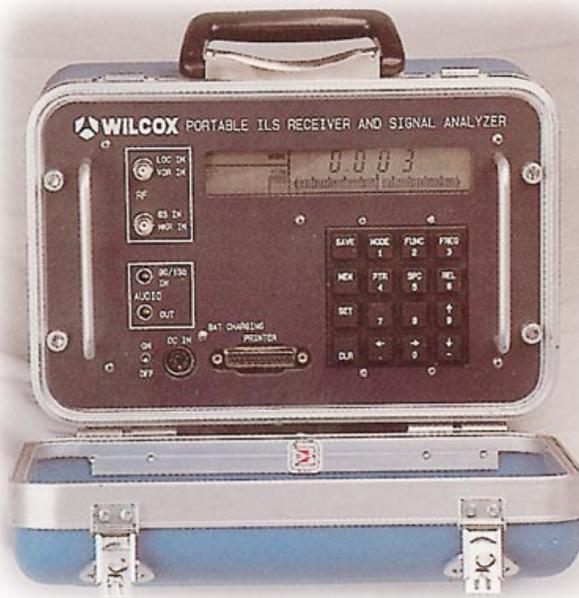

Features:

- Measured data may be stored in memory with a single keystroke, and printed out at a later date
- Unit is lightweight and compact, weighing 10 pounds with rechargeable batteries installed
- Uses a microcontroller-based architecture and digital signal processing techniques. The number of measurement choices is increased while much of the analog circuitry commonly found in most signal analyzers is eliminated
- Multi-function display and keypad provide easy operation

For more information, call Airsys ATM, Inc., at (913) 422-2600 or FAX them at (913) 422-2900.

Contract Number GS-24F-0015J; Special Item Number 602-40.

Data Acquisition and Data Logging Systems

A new award has recently been made to M-R-O Industrial Supplies, Inc., for data acquisition and data logging systems.

The purpose of these systems is to facilitate the downloading of digital information or data from electronic devices with output (e.g., calipers, micrometers, weigh scales, force gages, microprocessors, etc.) directly into a PC for the purpose of automated generation of forms with a spread sheet, statistical process control or data archiving.

The system consists of a GagePort, GagePort to PC Cable, Footswitch (for sending data) and a cable from the gage or transducer to the GagePort. The system can be expanded up to 32 devices through a single serial port. All components required to do this are covered by the contract as is Windows Wedge Software, which will allow the direct loading of data into a spreadsheet such as Excel.

For further information, contact M-R-O Industrial Supplies at 800-345-4135 or FAX them at (908) 707-1266, the points-of-contact are Ed Moraller or Steve Fryauff.

Contract Number GS-24F-0017J; Special Item Number 602-14.

Federal Supply Schedule Group 74, Part IV Embossing Machines

Have you been looking for an embosser to produce military I.D. Tags (Dog Tags), and medical I.D. cards? The Office and Scientific Equipment Center has them under Federal Supply Schedule Group 74 Part IV. Both automatic and manually operated (hand) embossers, capable of embossing both plastic cards and metal plates are available. There are a number of brands that provide an array of functions; from a single feed, on-line, keyboard operated, electronic embosser, designed for ease of use as a low volume, back-up embossing machine, to an automatic feed embossing system with electronic logic. There's an encoding option and in-fill/indent device, which makes it a versatile machine, suited for health care facilities. A graphics option allows direct printing of logos, text and barcodes simultaneously with embossing.

There is also a system capable of embossing, encoding and tipping plastic cards such as bankcards and those used by credit unions and banks. The automatic embossers can be operated as stand-alone or from a PC or mainframe using software designed to increase productivity, allowing maximum flexibility and versatility during day-to-day embossing operations. Most models have keylock and/or password security. If you want to find out which vendors offer this product, visit our Schedules E-Library at <http://www.fss.gsa.gov>, then search for Special Item Number 50-156, Embossing Machines.

Barnes and Noble, Inc. Comes to Schedule 76

Computer instruction books, business books and hundreds of thousands of other books are now available at discount from barnesandnoble.com on Federal Supply Schedule 76.

barnesandnoble.com, one of the country's largest online booksellers, and a division of Barnes and Noble, Inc. is now open to Government buyers using the GSA SmartPay Government Purchase Card. In addition to enjoying the heavily discounted prices, Government customers using their SmartPay card will not be charged shipping and handling costs.

Whether your agency is installing software upgrades and needs instruction books, wants to make business practice information available to employees, or is developing new planning procedures and requires more familiarization, this schedule contract is the answer.

GSA's Federal Supply Schedule 76, Part I, brings all Government agencies and military units great savings on Barnes and Noble's entire commercial book list, including business books, computer books, paperbacks, hard cover books, even bargain books. Ordering is easy through GSA Advantage! at <http://www.fss.gsa.gov>, or either the bn.com or barnesandnoble.com websites. You must use your SmartPay card to take advantage of the schedule contract.

For orders of 100 copies or more of some titles, Barnes and Noble will contact the publisher and attempt to obtain greater discounts than those offered on the website price list. Although all orders should be placed through the website, volume orders of 100 or more of the one title may be placed by purchase order.

The schedule contract does not cover walk-in store purchases at any Barnes and Noble, Inc., Barnes and Noble affiliate, or Dalton Books retail outlet. Purchases are for Government material only.

More good news, coming soon: Additional products will be available including a wide variety of computer software, music disks and tapes, and periodicals.

Contractor: Barnes & Noble, Inc.
Contract Number: GS-02F 0025J
75 Ninth Avenue, 11th Floor
New York, NY 10011.

Multiple Award Schedule 69 Computer Training

GSA's newly-expanded Federal Supply Multiple Award Schedule 69, Instructor-Led Training and Self Directed Computer Training has opened up a wide range of opportunities for Government agencies seeking training sources in subjects such as computer software and management, and technical engineering. Below are listed a few of the many contractors available.

AMCEE, Inc., 1495 Powers Ferry Road, Suite 200-B, Marietta, GA 30067, Phone (800) 338-9344; Fax: (770) 612-1060, Contract No: GS-02F-0952G.

In addition to courses in computer science and engineering, they have course listings ranging from engineering: aeronautical/aerospace, civil, chemical, electric, electronic, environmental, general, industrial, materials science, mechanical, nuclear and telecommunications, and management, mathematics, and statistics.

Meridian Knowledge Solutions, Inc., 14102 Sullyfield Circle, Suite 70, Chantilly, VA 20151, Phone: (703) 322-9565, Contract No: GS-02F-0006J.

This group offers many computer training courses and technology-based training solutions in a variety of packages and options, including the ability to deliver distance learning and corporate communications programs to the desktop via the Internet and CD-ROM.

National Educational Trainin gGroup (NETg), 1751 West Diehl Road, Suite 200, Naperville, IL 60563-9099, Phone: (800) 265-1900, Fax: (603) 983-4518, Contract No: GS-02F-429D

NETg offers comprehensive computer-based training courseware in the areas of end-user skills, systems and tools, including Microsoft Office, Web End User, such as Web Publisher; System Administration, Windows NT, Novell Ware/Netware, and much more.

TechKnowledge Corporation, (formerly Amdahl Education), 10420 Little Patuxent Parkway, 5th Floor, Columbia, MD 21044; Phone: (800) 233-9521, Fax: (410) 992-7183; Contract No: GS-02F-0001J.

This organization specializes in computer-oriented training, at either their own centers in nine major cities, or on-site at the customers' location.

NCR Government Systems Corporation, 2 Choke Cherry Road, Rockville, MD 20805-4030, Phone: (301) 212-5000, Fax: (301) 212-5258, Contract Number GS-02F0016J.

NCR has over 100 years of training experience and 75 convenient training facilities. Their curriculum includes courses from entry-level, general knowledge to specialized, advanced level techniques. It is a certified Cisco Training Partner and Microsoft Certified Solution Provider.

The following contractors specialize in self-directed training. For training situations with problems of divergent and overlapping group needs, Federal Supply Schedule 69 also includes several highly qualified training services with state-of-the-art training programs that utilize multi-media hardware and software. Programs include training on an individual basis in computer software, operation techniques and other industrial technical subjects. In addition to the excellent learning experience they provide, individual training is highly cost effective.

Because it is self-disciplined in format, individual training allows participants to skip sections they know, allowing specific concentration where needed and often saving time. Agency instructors reduce costs due to less involvement. Participants feel more comfortable in a private environment. Learning is self-paced and the multimedia format aids retention. A few of the leading contractors are:

ITC, 13515 Dulles Technology Drive, Herndon, VA 10271, Phone: (703) 713-3335, Fax: (703) 713-0065. Contract: No: GS-02F-9415C

They offer a broad spectrum of courses in popular software like Windows 95 and LAN management and advanced courses in other technical non-computer subjects.

Other contractors that should be contacted for a look at the full spectrum of training programs available in the Schedule are:

Anderson Soft Teach
983 University Avenue
Los Gatos, CA 95030

Federal Supply Schedule 58 V A

ADP/Communications Media Supplies

The ergonomic answers to many workplace injuries, strains, and inflammation of the musculo-skeletal structure are found in Federal Supply Schedule 58, Part V Section A.

When ergonomic principles are used in the design of new tools and devices, the causes of these workplace injuries are for the most part eliminated, reducing injuries, increasing worker's satisfaction, reducing absenteeism and increasing productivity. For example, the advent of the computer brought many orthopedic problems to the workplace, along with employee eyestrain. To counteract this, wrist rests can support wrists and at the same time, maintain them in completely horizontal positions, preventing carpal tunnel syndrome and reducing pressure on the median nerve.

Many of these ergonomic devices may be available in GSA stock, but most are found in Federal Supply Schedule 58 V A. Contractors can be accessed on the internet at the E-schedules library at <http://pub.fss.gov/sched> or through GSA Advantage![™] at <http://www.fss.gsa.gov>, or by phone or fax. The variety available gives you the options to make the best possible buying decision.

Multiple Award Schedule 75 III A

Office Supplies, Next Day Delivery

For the last 3 years, Federal buyers have been enjoying the benefits of the next business day desktop delivery program, contracted by the Office Supplies and Paper Products Acquisition Center under Schedule 75 IIIA. Many of the Government's basic office needs are provided by six of the country's largest office supply distributors, who offer uniform pricing on a national basis and most importantly, the advantage of electronic commerce via GSA Advantage![™]. Federal customers can call up the product on GSA's Internet website, <http://www.fss.gsa.gov>, read the description, compare the pricing, immediately place the order on the computer, and receive guaranteed next day delivery.

The products offered are the same or are similar to most of the products in recent GSA Customer Supply Center Catalogs, but unlike the vendor's shipments to their private sector customers, the cost of shipping is included in the price for Federal customers. There are no limits as to the size of the order, or the distance from the shipping point to anywhere in the contiguous 48 states and the District of Columbia. Orders can be placed at GSA's on-line shopping site, GSA Advantage![™] at <http://www.fss.gsa.gov> or by phone or fax using your GSA SmartPay Government Credit Card, if desired. Note however, that the schedule does not apply to walk-in orders at any of the contractors' retail outlets.

The contractors follow the same rules and regulations for procurement of the FAR and other laws that all agencies follow. They are closely monitored for quality, price and performance. They stock items from NIB, NISH, UNICOR, and from small and disadvantaged contractors, including those owned by minorities or women who are located in economically distressed areas. All products adhere to the regulations of the BUY AMERICAN Act and Executive Order 13101, which requires Government agencies to use postconsumer material paper and plastic products.

Special GSA catalogs and price lists are available from each supplier. Agencies may also discuss arrangements for customized billing or better prices, but only for items in the program.

The return policies are fair. Discrepancies, however, can be brought to the attention of the contractors' points of contact or failing that, to the Contracting Officers.

Household & Office Appliances MAS Vendors for Schedule 41 I

Did you remember that there is a new Worldwide Schedule 41 Part I for Household and Office Appliances? Soon the old way of buying appliances will be replaced by Multiple Award Schedules. There are 87 Special Item Numbers on it for all types of household and office appliances. As of April 30, 1999, nearly all appliances will be bought only on Multiple Award Schedules, and the other contracts will be canceled. Customers are encouraged to call Customer Service at 816-926-7315, DSN 465-7315, to place your order, or you may go directly to the vendor to buy using the GSA SmartPay Card. Items can be purchased through GSA Advantage![™] <http://www.fss.gsa.gov> from many of the contractors and eventually all of them. There have been 19 awards on the Multiple Award Schedules as of April 1, 1999, representing many different manufacturers' products.
